truSculpt® 3D

Decrease circumference.
Diminish fat.
Discover an incredible new figure.

After delivering 2 children by C-section, I had fat and loose skin on my abdomen and I was looking for a treatment that could address my concerns without downtime. The truSculpt 3D treatment was quick and easy to tolerate. Now at 12 weeks out, I see a noticeable difference in my abdomen – my pants fit better and my skin even looks better. truSculpt 3D is great treatment for busy people who are looking for improvement without the downtime and headaches of surgery. - LB

Common questions about truSculpt 3D

What is truSculpt 3D?

truSculpt 3D is a new, nonsurgical radio frequency device designed to sculpt and contour the body. On average, patients who've had this treatment have experienced an average of 24% reduction in fat thickness* in a single treatment.

Am I a candidate for truSculpt 3D?

Your provider can tell you whether you're a good candidate for truSculpt 3D. Ideal patients typically have a BMI of less than 30.

How long does a treatment take?

The length of your procedure will depend on which areas you're having treated. As a gauge, it usually takes about 1 hour to treat the abdomen and both flanks (love handles).

How many treatments will I need?

You should see results after one treatment, although some patients choose to have a second treatment for final tweaks or to treat additional areas.

Will it hurt?

Patients tell us that the procedure feels like a hot stone massage. Your provider will gently glide the handpiece over the treatment area and the temperature of the skin will rise but should remain comfortable for the duration of the treatment.

Will I need recovery time?

No. This is a noninvasive procedure and you'll be able to resume your normal activities right after the treatment. You may feel some tenderness in the treatment area right after the treatment but that will go away within a day or two.

Are there any side effects?

You won't experience any side effects except for the slight tenderness mentioned above.

When will I see results?

Right after the treatment, your body will start to break down and flush out the remnants of the fat cells that have been treated, which begins the reduction in the treated area's circumference. Every body is different, but most people see noticeable results 6–8 weeks after being treated.
